

Chevalier du Grand Robert Bordeaux Superieur 2014

STORY

In times past, Chevalier, or “Knight,” was a distinction of nobility given to land-owning families in France who served in defense of country against those who would encroach or threaten from abroad. In more modern times, it is a title given to those who represent the best of France, or have worked to preserve something uniquely French. Many Chateaux families have a long history of service to France which has gained the patriarch this designation of Knightly service. The name “Chevalier” symbolizes honor, tradition, and service to country in preservation of that which is uniquely French.

ABOUT

The vineyards where Chevalier du Grand Robert originates are situated in the Entre-Deux-Mers, 42 km southeast of Bordeaux. The town of Frontenac is separated from its neighboring town Cessac by a stream, which flows further North in the Dordogne river. Viticulture is predominant in the region and the eventful landscape is almost universally dotted with small parcels. The terrior is composed of clay, limestone, and silty gravel soils which allow for good drainage and promote full maturation of the grapes. The average age of the vines that produce this traditional Bordeaux Superieur are over 25 years.

TASTING NOTES

This wine is a beautiful ruby color. On the nose, it has intense contours with a variety of spices and aromas, most predominantly of black fruit and vanilla. It develops a full volume on the palate, with round, silky tannins and a long finish. Enjoy with red meat, roasted and grilled poultry, wild game dishes, and mature cheeses.

Drink now or cellar 4-7 years.
